

NL no. 4 -- March 2003

Hi everyone,

hope you're all very well & enjoying lots of music!

The band & myself have finished a series of gigs which took in concerts in Glasgow, Manchester & Birmingham.

The first one was a gig supporting Bob Geldof in Kilmarnock, Glasgow, 23rd January. We enjoyed the gig & the audience were great, Bob thought it was great too!

We then played at The Old Fruitmarket on the 24th January. It was a brilliant night & a lovely venue to play in with great atmosphere. It was great to meet people after the gig & them saying that they loved the gig & 'Raining Up'. It's brilliant to see some entries in the guestbook of my website of people who went to the gigs.

On the 25th January we played at the Lift Club in Glossop, near Manchester & on the 28th January at Ceolcastle, Birmingham. We had two great nights at these places, people were fantastic. Of course we stayed up for the few tunes at Ceolcastle after the gig!

Our last concert was in the Main Auditorium in the Concert Hall in Glasgow on the 1st Febuary. This really for me was the best night. We really enjoyed it & so did the audience. Watch out for the review in The Irish Post & The Living Tradition.

Our next date is the 16th March in Centenary Square, Birmingham. It's an outdoor festival for St.Patrick's Day & the gates open at noon. We are on at 5.50 pm - hope to see you there!

Keep an eye on www.maireadnesbitt.com for gigs coming up in Italy, Spain, Belgium & Canada. Info will be posted there in the near future for these concerts & others.

Enjoy the music!

Sláinte, Máiréad.
